GREAT BATTLES OF THE WORLD.—At Durham, 1336, there fell 15,000; at Halidon Hill and Agincourt, 20,000 each; at Bautzen and Lepanto, 26,000 each; at Austerlitz, Jena and Luizan, 30,000 each; at Eylan, 60,000; at Waterloo and Quarto Bras, one engagement, 80,000; at Borodino, 80,000; at Fontenoy 100,000; at Yarmouth, 150,000; at Chalons, no less than at Yarmouth, 150,000; at Chalons, no less than 300,000 of Attila's army alone. The Moors in Spain, about the year 800, lost in one battle 70,000; in another, four centuries later, 180,000. besides 50,000 prisoners, and in a third, even 260,000. Still greater was the carnage in an cient times. At Cantæ 70,000 fell. The Romans alone, in an engagement with Cimbri and

Teutons, lost 80,000 men. The Carthagenians attacked Mymero, in Sicily, with an army of 200,000 men and a fleet of 2,000 ships and 3,000 transports, but not a ship or a transport escaped destruction, and of the troops only a few in a small boat reached Carthage with the melancholy tidings. Marius slew, in one battle, 140,000 Gauls, and in another 200,000. In the battle of Issue, between Alexander and Darius, 110,000 were slain; in that of Arbela, 300,000. Julius Casar once annihilated an army of 363,000 Helvetians; in a battle with the Usipetes he slew 400,000; and on another occasion he massacred 430,000 Germans, who "had crossed the Rhine with their herds and flocks and little ones in quest of new settlements."

AN OLD SWORD WITH A HISTORY .- Alfred Prather, a respectable old colored man, who, for a number of years, has lived in this city, is keeper of an elegant sword which once belonged to a famous king. The history of this relic of royal-ty, as we have it from a reliable source, is this: It was presented by Napoleon I. to his favorite marshal, Joachim Murat. Aftewards Murat married the beautiful Caroline Bonaparte, and in 1808 received from Napoleon the crown of Naples, over which country he reigned seven years. In 1815, after the second fall of Napoleon, Murat was arrested and condemned by the Bourbon court, and was shot within thirty minutes after sentence had been passed. His son, Charles Louis Napoleon Murat, went from Italy to Austria immediately after his father's death, and lived there several years with other members of the family. In 1821 he emigrated to Florida, bringing with him the old sword of his father. Soon after his arrival in America he married a Miss Willis, of Virginia. At his death, in 1846, the sword passed into the hands of Madam Murat, his wife. She presented it The Grocery and Commission business formerly conducted by Kelly & Carter, at No. 89 Cameron street, will be continued by the new firm of KELLY & CARR.

Brewer, of California, a specimen of the tarantula. With referonce to this giant among spiders, Prof. Riley stated that there was erroneous impression prevailing as to the effects of its bite. It was not as deadly as was generally presumed. He had been bitten by a tarantula, without being seriously pained or inconvenienced. It was a singular fact that wherever this spider occurred

"HANGED IN THE SHADE.—The Constanti-nople correspondent of the Political Correspondence relates that many of the Bulgarians taken red handed in acts of violence and condemned to death, when they see that there is no longer any hope or chance of escape, produce from hidden pockets in their clothing large sums of money, which they present to one or other of the zaptiehs who may perhaps have treated them with kindness. Lately five Bulgarians were sentenced to death in Mustapha. When it came to the turn of one of them to be led forth, he requested the non commissioned officer commanding the party in charge of him to wait a moment. With some trouble he then extricated from the folds of his garments a handful of gold linas, and these he presented to the sergeant. This latter, moved by the generosity of his prisoner, tapped the latter on the shoulder, exclaiming, "As you are such a good fellow, you shall be hanged in the shade;" and, keep ing his promise, he selected a shady and pleasant spot, and there the Bulgarian was executed.

LADIES' UNION RELIEF .- The Ladies' Union Relief for the poor of Alexandria will reorganize on Wednesday next, December 5th, at the Or-phan Asylum, corner of Wolfe and Pitt streets. As the Relief has been in successful operation for several winters past, and is endorsed by the charitable citizens of Alexandria as the safest and most judicious mode of helping the poor, it is only necessary at this time to say that the society is not sectarian-ladies from all the Protestant denominations, drawn together solely by a desire to do good, and meeting on the platform of a common faith in Christ, organize to visit, and as far as the means placed at their disposal will allow, to relieve the poor. We therefore most cordially and earnestly invite ladies from all the churches to be present at our meeting on Wednesday next, at which time the annual election of officers will take place and other business of importance be trans

This was the immediate effect, but there was another, still more wonderful. The tarantula was not killed, but reduced to a state of coma, and would survive for years in that state, if not utilized for food by the wasp's progeny. The wasp, after stinging the spider, would drag it to a hole dug by her, and, after laying her egg under it, would cover it over.
